Find Time for Fitness

Just as people may be giving up on their health-related New Year's resolutions, Fitness Fair experts can renew enthusiasm Jan. 29 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Patch Barracks gym.

On-site experts will be analyzing feet to help individuals choose the proper running shoe. Other health care providers will be offering physical assessments. Those interested should abstain from caffeine and heavy meals as this can interfere with the cardiovascular segment. Participants should also wear either lightweight, form-fitting clothes or shorts under sweatpants. Nutritionists can help in this quest for healthy habits as well by offering practical advice for their food choices. The fair will also feature blood pressure screenings, advice on choosing the right bicycle, giveaways and information about aerobics groups and walking clubs.

Civilian employees can get information about the Civilian Fitness Program, a Department of the Army program that allows civilian employees three hours a week of excused absences for exercising over a period of six months with continuous monitoring. A team of health professionals will provide information, registration and baseline physical assessments to get people started in the program.

Teens may also register for the new Youth Orientation Program that instructs youth on the proper use of exercise equipment at fitness centers. Call Dianne Stolberg, 430-4073/civ. 0711-680-4073, for details.

SPORTS & FITNESS

Youth Earn Exercise Alternative

As the result of customer feedback, the opportunities for 14 to 15 year olds at fitness centers have been stretched, enabling them to use equipment with little or no supervision.

With a new Youth Orientation Program, youth ages 14 and 15 will be offered safety tips, training techniques and the knowledge of proper equipment use, ultimately earning an exception to the current 6th Area Support Group policy. Those who successfully complete the program can utilize cardiovascular and weight resistance equipment without a parent or guardian.

The first training session will be Feb. 16 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the Panzer Fitness Center.

According to the current policy, ages 16 and older are allowed unrestricted use of all fitness center facilities and equipment without being accompanied by an adult. Without training, ages 14 to 15 without training can use cardiovascular and weight resistance equipment with supervision from a parent or guardian and are entitled to unrestricted use of all other facilities. Ages 10 to 13 are prohibited from using cardiovascular equipment and weight rooms but are offered unrestricted use of other areas such as basketball and racquetball courts.

The breakdown in ages and entitlements was dictated by American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Sports Medicine and the National Strength and Conditioning Association recommendations, recognizing risks at different ages.

With such risks in mind, officials are exercising precaution while also adding opportunities for those 14 to 15 year olds who are mature enough to operate equipment alone.

Upon training completion, youth will be presented a Youth Orientation Program card to be presented prior to their workout.

By continuing training, youth may also extend their opportunities to include the use of free weights with supervision – a privilege not granted before the policy was amended.

Call the Youth Services Sports Office for details, 431-2616/civ. 07031-15-616.
